Motors Top searches Top locations Before having further discussion, here are the top 7 reasons why we at Philkotse.com believe the Honda City, either a brand new or second hand unit, is definitely worth your hard-earned money: An easy to use sedan with impressive reliability, high comfort levels, and fuel efficiency; Affordibility regardless of whether the particular unit is used or brand new; Sedate looking; Easy to find places to service or repair; High availability of spare parts; Multiple options for after-market parts when it comes to midifications; Low maintenance cost. >>> Find in-depth Honda City reviews by Philkotse experts First of all, while not as fast as the Honda Civic, the Honda City is an easy to use sedan that's ideal if you want to get to where you want to comfortably and without hassle due to its impressive reliability, high comfort levels, and of course its fuel economy. The Honda City is also much more affordable to purchase than the Honda Civic regardless of whether the particular unit is used or brand new. The styling of the City, in comparison to the Civic, is also much more sedate and lacks that rakish sportiness that the Civic is known for. Honda dealerships are numerous here in the country. As such, looking for places to service or even repair your 2nd hand Honda City is easy. Spare parts and after-market parts for the City are also easy to find and affordable as the vehicle is very popular here in the Philippines. And speaking of aftermarket mods, it's also easier to find a used hand Honda City in stock form mainly because those who want to modify cars usually get the Civic instead of the Honda City. Despite that, if you want to, the Honda City can also be modified with numerous after-market parts like performance exhausts, performance headers, air filters, and even body kits. Earlier versions of the City, like the Civic, are easy to work on and maintain. Some users even do regular maintenance all by themselves in their own garages. By doing this, costs for keeping the vehicle are even kept lower. That's why second hand Honda City is highly recommended when it comes to buying pre-owned vehicles.
